I am a father to two beautiful children and a husband to a beautiful woman who loves and supports all my crazy ideas. I am a chef in title but will always be a line cook at heart. I have been a staple on the culinary staff for the Southern Foodways Symposium since 2008, a celebrity chef for Holland American Cruise Line, a culinary instructor at Mississippi Delta Community College, an executive chef for both Six Shooter Land and Timber and Merrimac Farms (two top flight hunting camps) and a private chef for events featuring Morgan Freeman, Herbie Hancock, Rosanne Cash and Justice Antonin Scalia. I was named the King of American Seafood 2013. I competed on Season 2 of Food Network's "Cutthroat Kitchen" (and got kicked off during the second round for my Pad Thai being "too spicy"-- come on Jet Tila!). I was featured in Simon Majumdar's book Fed White and Blue. I owe my career to the great chefs that came before me, like John Currence, Derek Emerson and Kelly English. I am a decent golfer but elite beer drinker. I live by a statement that I once heard John Currence say, "My food doesn't tickle your palate, it punches you in the face!"

WINE
of the month

WINE OF THE MONTH FOR OCTOBER; As Fall and it's cooler weather and glorious colors in the landscape arrive

I thought it best to feature a fine Chardonnay to offer to go with Chef Perry's exciting new menu: BOEN CHARDONNAY 2018 from a blend of grapes grown in Monterrey and Santa Barbara Counties. We offered the Boen Pinot Noir couple months backs to great success and this is it's cousin made by famous winemaker Joseph Wagner son of the Chuck Wagner of Caymus fame. An opulent Chardonnay, silky, with rich fruit featuring apricot, lemon cream and vanilla flavors that linger in the mouth. Pair with all of Chef's seafood offerings and especially good with shrimp, crab and lobster dishes, white pastas, richer chicken and pork loin too. By the glass only in October for $6.00! A guaranteed treat, no tricks!! Tom Storey, Cellar Master
